ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present invention provides a recombinant adenovirus vector targeted by zipper peptides. The vector contains a fiber protein modified by insertion of a first zipper peptide that can crosslink to a fusion protein comprising a second zipper peptide and a targeting ligand. Binding of the first zipper peptide to the second zipper peptide forms a targeted vector: ligand complex, thereby targeting the adenovirus vector to a cell that expresses a cell surface molecule that binds to said targeting ligand.